

Spring 2022 Engineering Instructor Report for SP2022.T17.JME.3700.01 - Fluid Mechanics (Michael Wendl)

Project Title: Spring 2022 Course Evaluations - Danforth Campus

Courses Audience: 32

Responses Received: 11

Response Ratio: 34.38%

Report Comments

Welcome to your Instructor Report for WashU Course Evaluations. Below you will find response data from the specified course section. Responses to personalized questions appear at the bottom of the report.

The intention of this report is to provide feedback, and also to prompt improvement in areas that may be lacking. This report is accessible to appropriate department level and school level users, as determined by your school. We appreciate your dedication to our learning community at Washington University.

Comments
Answered everyone's questions
There were a few students in the class that may have tested his patience, but Professor Wendl didn't show it and was always tactful in addressing comments, interruptions, and questions.

Comments
I think towards the end of the class the chapters were brushed through because we did not have enough time in the semester left. This is not the instructor's fault as it takes a long time to understand/explain a complicated topic such as this.
Professor Wendl would always go extremely fast through examples and subjects it seems he is in his own head while teaching

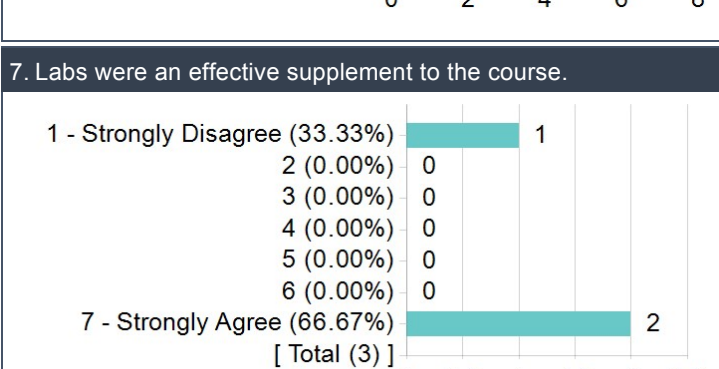

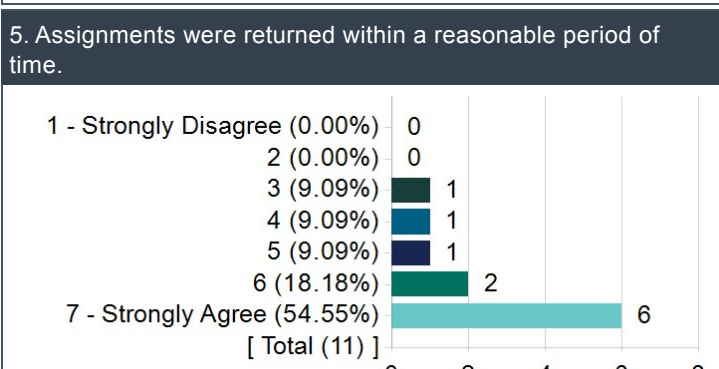

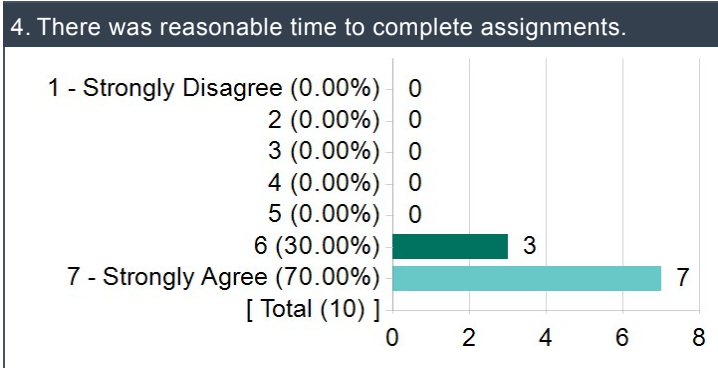

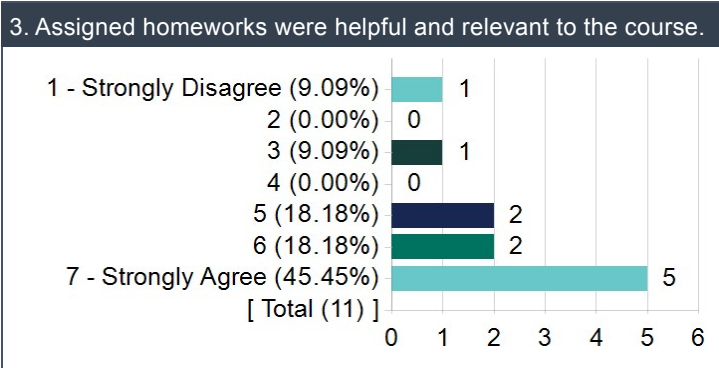

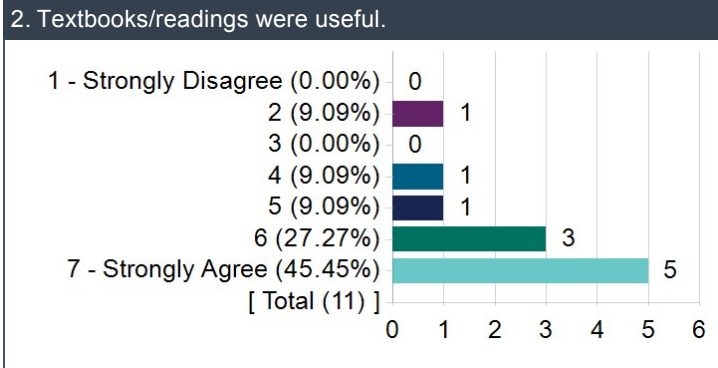

Course Materials and Assignments

Comments

Wrong textbook versions.

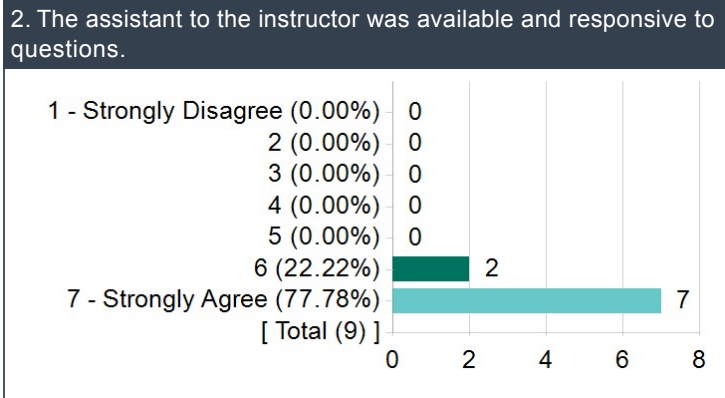

The textbook for this course was not very useful in my opinion, it was very boring and did not do a very good job of explaining concepts. There are likely much better textbooks out there.

Lecture closely followed the provided class notes. The textbook was not really needed.

Assistant to the Instructor (AI) and Recitation

Comments

The first midterm was much harder than the practice midterm from last year that we were given to study. The problems were barely correlated to examples we practiced in the homework. Which made for very bad test questions overall. And grading is pretty weird for that class as you don't really know where you stand till the end. As he takes the class average and makes it a b or c.

The two exams given– midterm and final– were completely different difficulty levels. There was not enough time to complete the midterm, but there was more than enough time for the final.

Overall satisfaction with the course.

Any comments on why you did or did not attend lecture?

Comments
The Homework was not a reflection of the lecture. I had a better experience getting help from YouTube and my book. He is a terrible teacher and his Material doesn't align with the test
Because even if you understand 1 out of 100 things he talks about that's better than nothing.
Lecture sometimes veered off on tangents. It was not always applicable to material we were to be tested on or have for homework assignments. It also so closely followed the class notes that if I missed, I knew I still had access to the material.

Comments

What did you like most about this course?

Comments
The student assistant
The bernoulli's equations
The topics.
nothing really
I liked the structure of homework assignments, with hard deadlines every 2 weeks. It developed problem solving ability more than other classes. It was also nice to have only 2 tests in the semester.

How could this course improve?

Comments
Make sure everyone uses the same textbook.
Have a different teacher. He talks to chalkbored and doesn't incorporates the class. Have in class problems that relate to the homework and exams.
Feel like more example problems are necessary
Give more time per chapter to allow the teacher to go more in-depth on the topics.
different instructor, more relevant tests, easier homework questions, take homework questions out of book, better textbook, more than 1 midterm, ability to drop a test grade, record lectures
Provide an equations sheet with the most useful equations. The class notes were useful, but many of the included equations weren't needed for solving problems. It made it more difficult to determine what tools I had available when working on homework.

What did you like the most about Instructor Michael Wendl?

Comments
He's smart
The teacher's enthusiasm and trying to relate outside world applications. The golf ball is a good example
His passion and understanding of the subjects.
He is a very smart guy and seems to know a ton about fluid mechanics.
Approachable, patient, enthusiastic, and very knowledgeable about the subject. He pushed us to become better problem solvers, more than most other professors do.

How could Instructor Michael Wendl improve?

Comments
Give in class problems that relate to homework and Exams. Don't assume that students know what he's talking about. Incorporate the class in the discussion
More fun real world applications
Use more applied examples in lectures and less mathematical theory.
I feel he almost knows too much about the subject that he has a hard time breaking it down for beginners to understand. When he teaches he goes through the material so fast in his head it is very easy to get lost. Rarely does he ask the class questions to reinforce understanding. His homework assignments are much too complicated to be helpful before he posts the answers. Most of the time it is difficult to even know where to start. If I were him I would just assign textbook problems that were relevant to what we are learning. He also had the tendency to go on long tangents which were unhelpful. The best days in his class were those where he would go over example problems, but unfortunately, those days are not as common as they should be. And sometimes even then the problems were still extremely difficult but it was better than him deriving complex fluid equations.
Slow down a little in lecture, when doing example problems. It was hard to keep up. Make exams problems more predictable. Tests pulled from material learned in other classes that we weren't fresh on.

What would you tell another student who asked you to describe this course?

Comments
Avoid his class. You're going to be unsure about your grade as well as your experience
Excellebt class
Hard. don't take it
It's tough material, but the curve makes it feel fair. Wendl is a nice professor, but he is too smart for me to keep up.

Have you observed any violations of academic integrity (e.g., cheating) in this course?

Comments
I have not.
no
No.
